

Student Names _____

Erin's Law - Boundaries

Directions: Working with another partner, please circle which boundaries you think are involved in the scenario. Please note that there can be more than one in each scenario and be ready to discuss the reasoning behind your answers.

- 1) A stranger at a bus stop tries to get your name and phone number, and you don't want to share these.

Physical                      Material                      Emotional                      Intellectual

- 2) While on a date with someone you have a crush on, they want to kiss you before you are ready.

Physical                      Material                      Emotional                      Intellectual

- 3) A younger sibling keeps coming into your room and taking things without asking you.

Physical                      Material                      Emotional                      Intellectual

- 4) Your teacher wants you to make up an assignment after school, but you have a prior engagement and can't do it.

Physical                      Material                      Emotional                      Intellectual

- 5) A friend in crisis is calling you incessantly needing support. While you want to support your friend, you are not able to be available to them every moment of every day. You tell your friend you can't help at the moment and they say you are stupid and insensitive.

Physical                      Material                      Emotional                      Intellectual

- 6) A friend doesn't ask you and posts a picture of you at a party on Snapchat and Instagram.

Physical                      Material                      Emotional                      Intellectual

- 7) You enter the room and your partner is going through your phone and reading your texts without asking.

Physical                      Material                      Emotional                      Intellectual